LIEUTENANT OTWAY H. BERRYMAN, U. S. N.
The telegraph conveys to us the mournful intelligence the death of Lieutenant Otway H. Berryman, comanding the United States steamer Wyandot, off Pensa-sels, on the 2d less.

The death of this highly generous, gentlemanly and efficient officer will not only bring deep sorrow to his amily and friends at home, but will be unfeignedly laparture from among them—never to be seen again on carth—will be saity and deeply felt by all those who have sailed with bim, either as measurate or shipmates. His joyous, merry laugh, and happy disposition; his fine, officer like bearing and self-possession under all circumstances, will long be pleasantly remombered by those bowere ever associated with him. Lieutenant Berryman entered the navy in 1829, and d performed much service at sea. He had been longer nmand than 40 y other one of his grade in the ser-since the year 1847 he has been almost continually vice. Since the year 1847 he has seen almost contractly in command, having commanded seven different vessels up to the time of his death. He commanded the United States brig Delphin in two different successful sounding expeditions in the atomic Ocean previous to the laying own of the telegraphic cable, and verified by his soundings the great platean, which had been asserted to exist by Commander Maury, and upon which the cable was by Commander waury, and upon which the cable was laid.

For the three menths previous to his death he had been actively employed with the Wyandot, off Pensacola and Fort Pickens, rendering the most important service. Two lieutenants and the misster having resigned, left him with but one ineutenant. In consequence of this much additional duty devolved upon him, and officers lately arriving from there state that he was frequently on duty twenty hours out of the twenty-four. His death was caused by brain tever, produced from exposure and constant arduous duties, which he ever performed with marked zeal and fidelity.

Being thus cut off while yet in the vigor of his days, the navy has lost an officer who performed his duty faithfully, and whose professional attaluments were those of usefulness to his country, and conferred distinction upon himself.

JERRY BRYANT, OF BRYANTS' MINSTRELS. Mr. Jeremiah Bryant, very well known throughout the ntry as the founder of Bryants' Minstrels, died in this city yesterday of congestion of the brain. Mr. Bryant was only about thirty-three years of age, but had already achieved an extended reputation in his eculiar line of business. He was a native New forker, of irish parentage, and first attracted public Yorker, of trieb parentage, and first attracted public attention as the "Bones" of "Ordway's Eolians," in Boston, about ten years ago. He afterwards orgenized a company, and after a short season in Boston commences as extended tour through the country, inclusing a trip to California, which latter was very successful. Returning to New York, the Bryants, now reinforced by several popular performers, secured Mechanics' Hall. formerly occupied by Christy's and afterwards by Wood's Minstrels. Here, during five years, the Rryants were very successful, "Gerry" and his brother "Dan" being the life and soul of the company. They were part and parcel of the attractions of New York, and curing the whole year never failed to attract full houses. "Jerry" was quant, clever and trrisistibly funny. In private life he was exceedingly popular, and noted for his thorough honesty and perfect integrity. His audden death will be sincerely regretted by a host of admirers in all parts of the country, as well as by a very large circle of personal friends.
